That's really an unknown - as far as I can tell, there's little by way of consistency between schools. Understanding which initiatives belong to OCDSB and which belong to the schools would be a good start.

Elementary Parents and Guardians - 2

There are a lot of inconsistencies between the learning experiences of students among different schools and even within the same school. Makes it difficult to judge what the OCDSB is doing right when there are so many differing experiences within the board.
