

Q3 LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

Ottawa-Carleton District School Board
Building Brighter Futures Together @OCDSB

Q3 What are some important priorities for the OCDSB to focus on for the next four years?

Start looking at low average classes to understand why it is If a teacher is being unfair this will help expose that, any class with a median lower than 75 should be inspected

I believe the staff need to work on being more caring and considerate Teachers and other school staff are a big part of a students life.

Allowing kids to be kids Kids's thinking is being conditioned too early in life. let them make their own decisions rather them showing them the "only" correct way

Making sure that the classroom is NOT a boring environment that we want to escape - because that's what it is now a lot of students struggle to listen to the teacher/focus because the way some stuff are taught are boring

Adress the deep apathy many students feel towards what seems to be a largely arbitrary and uncaring system. By making it less arbitrary and uncaring. Perhaps by trying to find out what student's needs are instead of guessing. I find teachers have this problem too with their supervisors.

More more passionate teachers, I feel like many don't care about their jobs or students. Particularly younger grades, I remember not feeling like I was being treated as a person with valid opinions

Training teachers to be cooperative with students and accommodate their students' needs I have one teacher in particular who I've had to confer with guidance about twice, and every time I've approached herprivately she says she doesnt care

How you hire your teachers... Some R just terrible & don't care, I still have a mental issue because of how terrible one of them were. Not just bcuz... they wnt 2 college means they qulify, it's far way more cmplcated thn tht. Teachers R sppsed 2 hlp us, nt mke us feel bad abt ourselves. Just sayin

Better staff Lots of the staff at our school don't seem to care about the learning and well being of the kids, insulting them and calling people who complain weak

Board needs to support Teachers, so that they are able to teach our kids. Need new teachers with new thinking outside the box to replace old retiring. Without teachers who are role models and care about our kids, the schools and board need to care about the teachers. Again no buts about it.

Have better teacher-to-student connections This needs to be done. When kids feel like their teacher isn't supporting them or is not paying enough attention to them they start to lose trust.
